

Military Scholarships

- Active Duty/Reserve
- Veterans
- Spouse/Dependent of Active Duty or Reserve

Military students can receive a scholarship in the form of a $100 reduction in tuition per academic credit ($300 reduction per academic course). Noncredit courses are reduced $185 each; after scholarship reduction, noncredit courses are $565 each. To receive this scholarship, the active duty or reserve service member, veteran, or spouse/dependent of active duty or reserve service member must complete an Atlantic University Military Scholarship application, submit an essay, and show proof of service by supplying the university with supporting documents.

Each scholarship is reviewed annually. Review begins one year from the student's first enrollment date and will continue each year until graduation or program completion. During this review you may need to provide updated documents supporting your or your spouse's/sponsor's active duty or reserve status. Failure to report changes in military status can cause a revocation of scholarship.
